

MATERIALS

- Small wood rounds (These are available in the unfinished wood aisle of your craft store. You can buy Ornament rounds with holes pre-drilled, or else you can drill holes yourself.)
- White acrylic craft paint
- 1-inch flat paintbrush
- Matte decoupage glue (like Mod Podge)
- Plastic wrap
- Decorative patterned holiday napkins (2-ply)
- Fine grit sandpaper
- Twine
- Scissors

MATERIALS

- Small wood rounds (These are available in the unfinished wood aisle of your craft store. You can buy Ornament rounds with holes pre-drilled, or else you can drill holes yourself.)
- White acrylic craft paint
- 1-inch flat paintbrush
- Matte decoupage glue (like Mod Podge)
- Plastic wrap
- Decorative patterned holiday napkins (2-ply)
- Fine grit sandpaper
- Twine
- Scissors

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Paint one side of the wood round with white acrylic paint. You can paint all the way to the wood slice edge, but I prefer to stop painting right before the ring around the bark. Let the paint dry completely.
2. Peel apart the layers of the decorative napkin, and discard the bottom layer (the white piece). Cut a small square in the napkin, just a bit larger than the wood round. If there is text on the napkin, be sure to center this cut over the text.
3. Apply a layer of decoupage glue over the white paint. Don't make the layer too thin, or else the napkin paper will bubble and wrinkle. Smooth the small napkin square over the decoupage glue, then lay a small piece of plastic wrap over the napkin.
4. Smooth out any bubbles. Remove the plastic wrap and let the decoupage glue dry completely.
5. Use sandpaper to gently remove the excess napkin paper, smoothing the edges of the wood round.
6. Seal the ornament with another layer of decoupage glue. Let dry completely.
7. Use a piece of twine to hang the ornament. Note: You will need to use a pointed object to make a hole through the napkin if your wood rounds already have holes drilled in them.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Paint one side of the wood round with white acrylic paint. You can paint all the way to the wood slice edge, but I prefer to stop painting right before the ring around the bark. Let the paint dry completely.
2. Peel apart the layers of the decorative napkin, and discard the bottom layer (the white piece). Cut a small square in the napkin, just a bit larger than the wood round. If there is text on the napkin, be sure to center this cut over the text.
3. Apply a layer of decoupage glue over the white paint. Don't make the layer too thin, or else the napkin paper will bubble and wrinkle. Smooth the small napkin square over the decoupage glue, then lay a small piece of plastic wrap over the napkin.
4. Smooth out any bubbles. Remove the plastic wrap and let the decoupage glue dry completely.
5. Use sandpaper to gently remove the excess napkin paper, smoothing the edges of the wood round.
6. Seal the ornament with another layer of decoupage glue. Let dry completely.
7. Use a piece of twine to hang the ornament. Note: You will need to use a pointed object to make a hole through the napkin if your wood rounds already have holes drilled in them.